AMERICAN-ENGLISH
RELATIONS STRESSED

Gives Brief Synopsis of Eton
Customs, Athletic Contests in England

Dr. Cyril Argentine Allington, headmaster of Eton college and Chaplain to King George V, stressed the importance of friendly relations between United States and England in an informal address given before the University students at 10 a. m. yesterday in Memorial hall. Gov. Ruby Laffoon introduced Doctor Allington and Bishop Almon P. Abbott gave the invocation. "I see no sort of political hope for the world except on a basis of understanding between the United States and England," said the English educator. He also cited many common heritages that the two countries enjoy, namely, literature, which is second only to Greece, love of freedom and peace, and a common ancestry.

Doctor Allington said that he felt the right to be proud of Lincoln and Lee and that the citizens of United States enjoyed the reciprocal right to reverent the great men in English history. He believes that all of these things combine to make for a more complete understanding and sympathy between the United States and Great Britain. He asserted that the United States should not judge England too harshly when she seemed to become entangled in her foreign relations with more warlike European nations, for her geographical position made it impossible for her to maintain a non-interference policy.

"Your best writers, here in United States, frequently express the doubt that your country can remain apart in foreign relations," Doctor Allington said.

Doctor Allington gave a brief account of Eton college, telling of the founding of the school by King Henry VI in 1440, of the monarch's personally designing the arms and chapel, and of the difficulties that the school had met and overcome in its 493 years of existence. He described the silk hats and collars which the Eton boys wear and other peculiarities of dress.

According to Doctor Allington all sports are carried on an intramural basis and the competition is very keen. Incidentally the silk hats are often used for footballs.

Doctor Allington, who was educated at Trinity and Marlborough colleges, holds the honor of being a Fellow of All Souls college, Oxford. He was the guest of the Pennicott club in Louisville and was brought here by the Kentucky Branch of the English Speaking Union, whose purpose is to promote better understanding and comradeship between England and the United States.

Doctor and Mrs. Allington are motoring through Kentucky with Mrs. W. B. Belknap and Mr. William B. Davenport of Louisville. They were the dinner guests of President and Mrs. McVey yesterday at Maxwell place.

Sigma Delta Chi
Inducts Six Men

Six men, Albion Parris, Earl Martin, Frank Adams, J. D. Palmer, Fred H. Shells, and Moses Fried were inducted into Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism fraternity Thursday night at McVey hall. The men inducted are all majors in the journalism department and were pledged November 21.

After the opening of the second semester, the group will meet and make plans for the second term's activities.

COOPER TO SPEAK

Thomas P. Cooper, dean of the College of Agriculture, will address members of Sigma Xi, national honorary scientific fraternity at a meeting, at 7 p. m., Friday, January 20 at the Experiment Station. His subject will be "The Economic Situation and Its Effect on Agriculture."

Kampus

Seniors who are to be graduated January 27 have been notified to pay their senior fees to the business office before January 23, according to an announcement issued by that department. These fees are usually collected at the beginning of the year, but this year the collection was postponed until this later date.

There will be a meeting of Pershing Rifles at 7:15 p. m. in Lieutenant Le Sturgeon's room in the Armory. This meeting is for active members only.

MEETING DATE UNSET

The Athletic council of the University met Friday night in the Colonial room of the Lafayette hotel for a Dutch supper and business meeting. After the supper, several changes were made in the Wildcat's football schedule for next season.

Of major importance was the request by Tennessee officials that the annual Thanksgiving game between the Volunteers and the Wildcats be played either on the Saturday before or the Saturday after Thanksgiving day. The reason given for this request was that it would enable the Volunteers to schedule an additional game by playing on these days. The council delayed with the decision on this question until further correspondence with the Tennessee council can be made.

The Washington and Lee game, which is usually played at Lexington, Virginia, has been scheduled to be played at Roanoke, at the request of Washington and Lee authorities. The reason for this change is that V. M. I. also has a game scheduled at Lexington, Virginia on the same date. The council passed this request.

Alabama's athletic council filed the notice that the Wildcat-Crimson Tide game will be played at Birmingham next year instead of at Tuscaloosa, as has been the custom in the past. This was quickly agreed to by the local council.

The annual high school basketball tournament will be held in Lexington this year, as usual, but will be held the last two days, according to a statement issued by S. A. Boles, athletic director. There will be 16 boys teams entered in the tournament and there will be (Continued on Page Four)

Eight Advanced Corps Students Inducted in Armory
Friday Night

Scabbard and Blade, national honorary military fraternity, held its annual fall initiation Friday night, January 15, in the "Y" room of the Armory building. The new members of the organization are Robert McVay, Morristown, N. J., a member of Delta Tau Delta fraternity; James Boyd, Paducah, Tri-angle; Joe Frydom Mills, Lexington; Delta Tau Delta; Edwood Barber, Ashland, Lambda Chi Alpha; Rodger Davis, Newport, Phi Kappa Tau; Robert Wheeler, Alpha Tau Omega; and Walter Steitler, Owensboro. Captain Gerald Griffin, U. S. Army, was made an honorary member.

The initiation was conducted by Harry Emerich, captain of the company, and the initiation team was composed of Cameron Coffman, George Skinner, Ollie Price, Howard Baker, Ray Alford, and Tom Quisenberry.

Dean of College of Engineering
Established Course in 1891

F. Paul Anderson, Dean of the College of Engineering, came to the University in 1891 and established engineering training as a definite part of the University of Kentucky. Before that time a few subjects having direct relation to engineering were taught in the old Agricultural and Mechanical College, but there was no definitely organized engineering course. Dean Anderson has built up the College of Engineering until today it is recognized as one of the great technical schools in America.

Kentucky's Wildcats romped all over the "Tiger clan" of Clemson college last night. The Orange shirted South Carolina collegians were no match for Sale, Yates, Johnson, Davis, Darby, Demoisey and company and they left the floor after taking as sound a drubbing as any team that has faced the 'Cats in years. Captain "Aggie" Sale celebrated for the home town people as he turned in one of the most sparkling performances of his bright career. Kentucky's guards maintained the high standard of play, with both Johnson and Davis scoring freely. The great Yates-Demoisey battle raged on with both boys playing great games of ball. Yates still seeming to be a little better on defensive play.

Woodward played much the better game for the Clemson team, however, the Orange lads were never able to get started, so fast was the Wildcat onslaught.

First Half All Kentucky

As the first half got under way both teams tried numerous shots, but Darby and Davis scored the only points on gratis throws. Kentucky then began to run wide open with Sale and Demoisey peppering the net from all angles. After seven minutes of play Kentucky was leading 12-0. Woodward scored the first Clemson points. Davis and Johnson continued to run up the Big Blue's score. With the score 20-2 Clemson began sending in a raft of substitutes in a vain attempt to stem the Wildcat hoard of sharpshooters. Clemson scored its third point, after twelve minutes of the first half were over, when Johnson fouled Woodward, who sank the "free" throw. Yates and Kreuter entered the game and "Big George" celebrated by scoring in the first thirty seconds. Kentucky continued to run wild and the half ended, 39-8.

Second Half Still Fast

The Blue machine continued in high gear throughout the second period and was little hampered by the presence of substitutes in the lineup. Simons played a greatly improved game for the Tigers, during the second period, scoring several times on twist shots. With the 'Cats out in front to the tune of 53-18, Dave Lawrence replaced the pacemaking Sale. With "Aggie" gone, Johnson started out to make it a field day and scored several times before half ended. Demoisey and Davis entered the game five minutes before the final gun replacing Yates and Johnson, who went to the showers with a tremendous ovation from the crowd ringing in their ears. The game ended as Kentucky failed to run the score quite to 70 points.

marily to be the superintendent of Studebaker Brothers Manufacturing company at South Bend, Indiana, where his father had been superintendent for more than 25 years.

In addition to the training of the public schools Dean Anderson served four years machine's apprenticeship. He received the Bachelor's degree in Engineering from Purdue university in 1890 and was a fellow at Purdue university in 1890-1891, working under the direction of Dr. W. F. M. Goss, at one time Dean of the Engineering Schools at Purdue, afterwards Dean of the Engineering Schools of the University of Illinois, President of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, and one of the great authorities on the power of railways in America. Dean Anderson while a fellow at Purdue developed the details of a locomotive testing plant, which was the first device of its kind, for the study of the locomotive under all conditions of speed and power in a laboratory.

Dean Anderson came to Kentucky in 1891, not with the idea of taking up teaching a shis life's work, but with the purpose of returning to the Studebaker Brothers Manufacturing company at the end of the year to take up prearranged work with them. Dean Anderson became so fascinated with the training of engineers that he put off the final decision about returning to Studebaker Brothers for five years, when he decided to make his (Continued on Page Four)

Kernel Student Council
Representative

Without orthodox trial, the Men's Student Council Monday afternoon found Lawrence A. Herron, Editor-in-chief of The Kernel, guilty by a vote of 5 to 4 of contempt of the Council resulting from an article printed in the school paper Tuesday, January 10. By the same vote of 5 to 4 Herron was to be "lightly" reprimanded by a committee of three, Howard Smathers, Henry Glenn Burch, and Smith Broadbent, appointed by John Ewing, president of the Council.

Herron was called before a meeting of the Men's Student Council Monday afternoon after having received a summons from Ezra L. Gillis, registrar. The summons did not state that Herron was to be tried or even the nature of his appearance at the session.

When he arrived at the convocation of student representatives, however, the Editor of The Kernel was asked if he was ready to answer certain questions which the president pro-tem, Thomas Lynch, who took the seat when John Ewing withdrew from the Chair, would ask, and which other members of the Council might choose to put to him. Herron acquiesced.

With him Herron brought a student, Gilbert Kingsbury, to act as his lawyer, after obtaining permission from the dean of men. The Kernel Editor asked Lynch if he were on trial. The latter answered in the negative, and said that he merely wished to ask questions in order that future actions might be taken or dropped. With this in mind, that he was not on trial, Herron freely answered all questions put to him by Lynch and other members of the Council, save those he thought irrelevant to the issue.

Council's Charge Not Specified
Kingsbury, acting as Herron's adviser, asked Lynch what his client would be charged with when the trial should be held, or just what kind of charge the Council was making against Herron. Lynch stated that the question was out of (Continued on Page Three)

GUIGNOL PRIZE
PLAY SELECTED

'Alas, Poor Yorick!' Is Title of Prize Winning Skit By Virginia Boyd, C. P. Kraatz,
U. of K. Graduates

Guignol, little theater of the University, will present "The Circle," by W. Somerset Maugham, the week of February 1, according to Frank Fowler, director of dramatic activities. The plan is a delightful English social comedy of manners and furnishes an excellent study of comedy character. The cast, comprised of eight characters, has not been released as yet, but will be published as soon as it is completed.

Announcement of the prize winning play has just been released by the dramatic department, and has the tentative title of "Alas, Poor Yorick." The play was selected from 10 entries in the contest and was written jointly by Virginia Boyd and C. Parry Kraatz. Its theme is a spicy burlesque on Guignol movement, requiring 15 characters for presentation. The cast will not be announced until the end of this month.

The co-authors, Virginia Boyd and C. Parry Kraatz, represent a triumph in amateur play writing, as they are both former students of the University. Miss Boyd is a graduate of the 1927 class and is, at present, connected with the University in conjunction with the music department of which she is secretary. She also was a student in the graduate school until 1931 and has been active in work with the little theater for some time.

Mr. Kraatz completed his master's degree here in 1932 in conjunction with the graduate school, and is, at present, attending the medical school of the University of Cincinnati.

Members of the committee of judges who selected the prize winning play are Prof. E. E. Parshur of the English department; Miss Ann W. Callahan of the Art department; and Mr. Frank Fowler of the English department and director of dramatics.

Departments

11 TALKS ON PROGRAM

Approximately 3,000 men and women from all parts of the state are expected to attend the 21st annual Farm and Home Convention to be held January 24 to 27, at the experiment station farm. This aggregation of farm representatives will feature prominent speakers from various parts of the country, in connection with a careful study of present situations on the farm and in the home.

Special sessions in several of the various departments will be held Tuesday morning with the initial opening of the convention. This includes the agronomy, markets and farm economics; animal husbandry; veterinary; dairy; poultry; beekeepers; and homemakers' departments. Each session will present lectures by instructors of the College of Agriculture and prominent farmers.

A general session for homemakers will be the principal item on the program Wednesday. O. E. Baker, United States Department of Agriculture, (Continued on Page Four)

Rings For Seniors
May Be Ordered
From Salesman

Seniors may secure class rings from H. W. Peters company, according to an announcement issued by Howard Baker, chairman of 1933 ring committee. The company is represented on the campus by Red Chandler and the jewelry may be ordered directly from him or through the chairman of the committee.

According to Chandler, the ring is similar to the one selected last year by the senior class. A personal call will be made on the seniors of the mid-term graduating class in order to show the ring to those members. Appointments may be made if the prospective graduates so desire. Chandler may be reached, according to the ring committee members, by calling at 118 Bassett court or phoning Ashland 6243.

The degree received by the graduate will be engraved on the rings. In addition a fraternity or sorority crest may be substituted for the University seal that is ordinarily placed on the ring. Although the crest will be set on an onyx base, the birthstone of the purchaser may be substituted for the original stone.

The senior invitation committee composed of Charles Kastner, chairman, Elise Bureau, and Jack Strother, will meet with Prof. H. H. Downing, chairman of the University auditing committee, in the near future, in order to select the invitations that are to be used for the June graduation. The committee was appointed during December by Russell Gray, president of the senior class.

Piano Accompaniment by

Renditions

Two local artists, Mrs. W. H. Hansen, soprano, and Mr. H. Overton Kemp, tenor, presented as guest artists, another of the weekly musicales in Memorial hall at 4 p. m. Sunday. A large and critical audience enthusiastically applauded the presentation.

Assisted at the piano by Mrs. E. A. Cheek, Mrs. Hansen's numbers were given the proper support not often heard by a Lexington audience. Mrs. Cheek's work as an accompanist was of the best heard at the musicales this year. In Mrs. Hansen's singing of Edwin Schnieder's "Unmindful of the Roses," the audience probably witnessed her ability at its best during her performance. Her soprano voice is seemingly capable of interpreting the most minute effects desired by her as well as by the composer. In revealing the range of her voice, Mrs. Hansen's singing of "Depuis le jour" from the opera by Carpentier brought much favorable comment from her listeners. Roger's "Autumn," and the delightful waltz of LeForge, "Love-tide of Spring," completed Mrs. Hansen's renditions.

As an encore to her appreciative audience she sang the attractive ballad, "My Curly-Headed Baby." H. Overton Kemp's fine dramatic tenor voice was enthusiastically received, and his singing of "Vesta Le Giubba," the dramatic aria from Pagliacci was exceptionally well done.

The only part of Mr. Kemp's program which possibly has been unenjoyable to his audience was his absolute refusal to encore.

Sarah Whittinghill, Harvard, junior in the College of Agriculture, was elected president of Boyd hall for next semester to fill a vacancy caused by the mid-year graduation of active president Billie Maddox. The election was held at a general house meeting of Boyd hall residents, Thursday, January 12, under auspices of W. S. G. A.

The president-elect is a member of the orchestra, of the Girls' Glee club, the Home Economics club, chairman of the program committee of the Y. W. C. A., and a member of Pitkin club. She attended the Western Kentucky State Teachers college before coming to the University this fall.

Other girls who were named by the nominating committee are Marie Bolnot, Virginia Lee Moore. Nominations from the floor were made for Mary Phillips and Martha Lewis.

Official duties for the new president will begin the first of next semester.

New Sponsor To Be Intro-

of New Semester

Sally Margaret Walker, 18, Delta Delta Delta, was selected band sponsor for the next two semesters by members of the men's band this afternoon.

Margaret Walker is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Walker, 507 N. Broadway. She is a sophomore in the College of Arts and Sciences, majoring in physical education. She is a member of W. S. G. A., Y. W. C. A., and W. A. A. She succeeds Elizabeth Jones, Kappa Delta.

The newly elected sponsor will not assume her duties until next semester, and according to Prof. Elmer G. Sulzer, director of the band, probably will be formally introduced to the university at the first basketball game of the coming semester.

The position of sponsor of "the best band in Dixie" is the highest honor that may be accorded to a University co-ed. It is her duty to appear with the band at all games and concerts, and to go with the band at all games and concerts, and to go with the band on all trips with the athletic teams.

In order to keep the election free from politics strict rules were given and followed by the committees choosing the candidates. Two committees of four men each were appointed to select the candidates; each committee picking four girls as eligible for the position of band sponsor. The names of the girls were kept secret until yesterday just before the election.

At the election, which was held in the Art center, the girls were brought before the band members and introduced as candidates. Each band member was then given a numbered ballot with spaces for his first, second, and third choice. The voting was then conducted and the votes counted.

Professor Sulzer, in a statement to a reporter, emphasized the importance of this election being free from politics. He intimated that it would be a tragedy to the University if a band sponsor were elected by political factions rather than for her merits, because she must be chosen for her appearance, style, and personality.

The twelfth annual discussion group, sponsored by the campus Y. M. C. A. organization, will be closed officially by a banquet at 6:15 p. m. tonight in University commons. President Frank L. McVey is principal speaker on the program that has been arranged for the occasion. "The Value of the Discussion Group to the Average Student," will be his topic.

These discussion groups, which are conducted so that ethical assistance can be given to the student relative to problems of his every day life, were founded in 1920 and have climbed steadily into a place of importance in student activities.

An award is made to the fraternity or other organization that maintains highest average attendance and seems to respond most readily to teachings of group leaders. Phi Kappa Tau is conceded this year's award.

Class enrollment totalled 512; season attendance of all groups averaged 2,717, and the various organizations listed an average attendance of 382 at each weekly meeting.

DISCUSSION GROUP BANQUET

Tonight in the University Commons one of the most beneficial activities of the Y. M. C. A. will be officially culminated with the annual banquet. After six weeks of intensive discussion, the leaders of various discussion groups will gather with other members who engaged in the thought-provoking sessions. And the dinner this evening is little more than an invoice to check the ideas and problems confronted by those persons who sat in on the discussions.

Practically every fraternity house on the campus joined in with the Y. M. C. A. in an effort to advance more poignant and sagacious thought along the moral and economic issues of the day. Too, discussion groups were held in rooming houses where men students lived. Speakers were able to reach a good percentage of the student body with their timely topics.

President McVey is scheduled to give the principal dinner talk. His subject, as announced, will be "The Value of Discussion Groups." Despite the heavy routine which confronts the president he finds time to participate in the discussion group banquet. Doctor McVey, better than anyone else, realizes the essential value and necessity of moral guidance on the campus.

The Y. M. C. A. is to be congratulated for sponsoring such a worthwhile activity.

AN ENGLISHMAN SPEAKS

Dr. Cyril Argentine Alington, chaplain to King George V and headmaster of Eton College, in an address before a general convocation in Memorial hall Monday morning declared that a closer spirit of good fellowship and understanding should exist between England and the United States. Governor Ruby Laffoon introduced the distinguished speaker and Doctor Alington presented his interesting and instructive talk to one of the largest gatherings of attentive students ever to assemble in the building.

Indicating that Eton College is located on the Thames river across from Windsor and that the institution was founded in 1440 by King Henry VI, the speaker continued by giving some interesting sidelights on life in the school. He said that the students, boys, ranging in age from 12 to 19 years old, wear silk top hats to school and affect the famous Eton collar.

Disciplinary measures are left in the hands of the students themselves, and whenever a student is found smoking or violating any of the college rules he is soundly thrashed by his fellows. Doctor Alington further stated that, for the most part, the students are sons of the nobility and considered this privilege a concession granted to them by their birth. The eminent Englishman has been the headmaster of the college for the last 17 years.

Continuing his remarks, Doctor Alington asked for a better understanding between his country and America. He said that the conflicts engaged in by England and the United States in the past should be forgotten and a better spirit of fellowship, to the advantage of both nations, should be established. He was applauded generously as he delivered this statement.

At the conclusion of the visitor's speech President McVey asked that the students forget the Revolutionary War and seek, through open mindedness, to weld the two countries together so that the mother country, England, and the younger nation, the United States, might profit by the spiritual union.

The Kernel wishes to congratulate the Kentucky branch of the English Speaking Union on bringing such a world figure to the state, and the University on its successful efforts in getting Doctor Alington to deliver an address before the students. An opportunity to hear such a gentleman and scholar is rare, and The Kernel feels sure that the student body appreciates the efforts of the University authorities in bringing before them such a distinguished man. The students themselves are to be commended for their attendance at the convocation. The hall was filled to its capacity, and the large assemblage reflects credit on the students' recognition of the import attached to hearing such a man as Doctor Alington.

HARMONY AMONG THE GREEKS

In an effort to bring fraternities closer together, a conference is being planned by members of the Pan-Hellenic council. The nature of the conference will be a two-day program. Among the scheduled features are addresses by alumni to be given pledges and members of the assembled Greek orders on subjects relevant to social organizations.

Whether such a conference will be effective in establishing more friendly relations is a matter of conjecture. The plan has worked at other educational institutions. Its satisfactory functioning on other campuses is not indication that it will be heralded with approval at the University. Again, it may prove most effective. There are arguments for either side.

Included among the drawbacks that will test the conference to its limits are the following factors: Political bosses and fraternity politics on all campuses have resulted in cut-throat competition among organizations. The purpose of social fraternities, that of cordial and constructive social organization, often has been lost in an effort to triumph over rivals. This has necessitated the setting up of a superficial structure of comrade and good-fellowship that gives itself the lie. It is a flimsy edifice when tested by the storms of perverted ambition and rivalry. Because it is a flimsy structure, those habitants of it may fear to throw the first stone.

Essentials favoring the conference's success are: The dictates of the minority, the organized minority, have too long controlled the campus. Consideration of group problems too seldom has been afforded. The fundamental aims of social fraternities can in no way be better expressed, co-operation can in no way be better assured than in the calling of a conference at which all organizations will be given opportunity to discuss and explain problems in terms of fraternities as a single unit, not as divided factions.

Whether the object of the conference is achieved, and it will be achieved only through the co-operation of all organizations on the campus, the conference in itself is a commendable project. An attempt at necessary re-organization, an almost inevitable readjustment, will have been made. Only through such strivings will conditions be bettered.

SOUTHERN ATHLETIC PROBE

Abreast the wailing winter winds from out of the Southland, comes drastic charges of subsidization and low scholastic standings among the Southern colleges. As the result of this, the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools has been asked to institute an investigation in every school in its jurisdiction and to adopt a regulation to withdraw standard college rating from schools found guilty according to an Associated Press story. The prohibition of such practices also is being advocated by the Southern Conference, consisting of the institutions along the Atlantic seaboard. In all probability the newly formed Southeastern Conference, of which Kentucky is a member, also will be asked to conduct an investigation of its own or one in conjunction with that of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, if the latter accepts.

A move of this kind to "clean up" Southern athletics is one of commendable principle. However, it is doubtful if the investigation really will be fruitful. There seems to be a great deal of conjecture whether those who submit to a probe will be charged with anything serious.

JEST AMONG US

Some women don't make their men very good wives but they sure do make them good husbands!

Ninety-nine out of every 100 persons go to California instead of California. D'yo gettin' freshman?

Formerly it was, "Where there's a will there's a way," or "Where there's a will there's a law suit," but now it seems to the Jester that it reads, "Where there's a Will, there's a little Willie."

Editorial head: "Early Bird." They didn't say anything about the worm; our guess is that graduates have learned enough to leave worms alone by now.

Famous last lines: "Oh! but that's our private business."

Add simile: Closed as tight as a meeting of the student governing body.

An old fashioned girl blushed when she was ashamed; the modern girl is ashamed when she blushes.

Things we regret we can't regret—Why ten cent cigarettes were ever manufactured.

Famous last words—"Gee, don't you just adore publicity?"

DOTES AND ANTI-DOTES

If Deltaweb Jack McConnell hadn't failed to close my window on that particularly frosty morning of Friday 13, I wouldn't have a cold. And if I didn't have a cold, News Editor Gilbert Kingsbury wouldn't have written today's column, maybe. But they did, and I'm not responsible for today's column, and anyway, I hope McConnell cuts his throat the next time he shaves.

After delivering ten or more dilatory Suikers to their homes after a recent meeting, Alfagam Julia Catherine (Sugar) Webb christened her car the town cab.

Pyekap Long John (Mussolini) Ewing is bemoaning his fate. The student council impresario insists that he does all the dirty work gets all the blame. Asserts that he has only one good friend.

All of which reminds us that the Kentuckian business manager has a head of his own but that Brother Bus isn't so dumb after all.

Perhaps the depression has hit campus love affairs but there seems to be a scarcity of fraternity pins on co-eds. Interested observers predict that with the return of spring and the renovation of sorority and campus gardens Burr Patterson, Edwards-Haldeman and others will experience a revival in jewelry sales.

Between racing seasons we grow stale in the art of picking winners. In order to obtain a little practice before the ponies return to the Blue Grass we do a little practice on campus affairs.

ROAMIN' THE RIALTO

The treasured romance of the American theater, "Madame Butterfly," modernized and done into a motion picture by director Marion Gering, opened Monday at the Kentucky theater. It will continue its run through Wednesday. The idyllic little tale is based on the life of the real Madame Butterfly, a beautiful Japanese Geisha Girl, Sylvia Sidney has the title role, with Cary Grant playing opposite her.

Wednesday brings the Tower production, "Shop Angel," to the Strand theater. The story, as its name suggests, deals with the trials and tribulations of a beautiful girl who rolls her own—An American working girl. Outstanding among the names of the players are Marion Shilling, Dorothy Christie, Anthony Bushell, Holmes Herbert, Creighton Hale, and Walter Byron. E. Mason Hopper directed.

William Powell, who has so often played the masterful roles in which ladies faint into his arms at the veriest whisper, comes a cropper in his role in Warner Brothers' "Lawyer Man." It opens Thursday at the Ben All. Not that Powell has ceased to be masterful, but his magnetism is diverted to swaying juries to his will in this current feature. Every time he mixes with the ladies he gets the worst of it. Some of those ladies are Joan Blondell, Helen Vinson, Claire Dodd, and Sheila Terry. Others in the cast are Allen Jenkins, Alan Dinehart, and David Landau. It was directed by William Dieterle.

The inimitable Thomas "Fats" Waller—he of the famed Radio Rhythm Club of WLW—has abandoned the microphones of the Nation's state long enough to appear in person at the Kentucky theater Thursday and Friday. Idol of New York's night life, this dusky pianist-singer-composer of the Harlem supper clubs is proving the greatest sensation in radio since the advent of the Mills Brothers. He is the composer of such currently popular songs as "Ain't Misbehavin'," "My Heart's At Ease," and "My Fate Is In Your Hands."

The feature for Thursday and Friday at the Kentucky needs no introduction. "Once in a Lifetime" is the stage hit that rocked packed houses with laughter with its broad satire on Hollywood. When Hollywood, good sport that it is took up the lark and made a talkie out of it, it naturally lost its sting. But the loss is more than made up for in hilarious situations impossible for a stage production. Jack Oakie heads the cast, which includes Sidney Fox, Aline MacMahon, Russell Hopton, Zasu Pitts, Onslow Stevens, and Johnna Howland. It was directed by Russell Mack and produced by Carl Laemmle, Jr.

LITERARY

Her purring voice came over the phone

In answer, when I did inquire
Just who was speaking in that tone,
"Oh, I'm that little girl so sweet
With the figure that you much admire."

I thought of Ann and Marguerite,
Of Grace, and Mabel, Betty, Sue—
Of all the figures that I knew
But there was none in memory's file

Who used that voice in such a style.
I raved and ranted, prayed and pled;
I stroked my chin and scratched my head;

But never did she tell her name.
She chattered on, and on, and on,
I did my best to play her game
But ere I knew it she was gone.
Hanging up I heard her smile
Which puzzled me for quite awhile
Until I thought of Barnum's rule
And guessed I'd been an easy tool
To woman's wiles and playful wit.
I am a fool, I must admit.
But he who claims a place on Wisdom's stool
Deceives himself and is the greater fool.

BOOK REVIEWS

THE MERRY SOCIAL HISTORIAN

THE FLESH IS WEAK, by John Held, Jr. Illustrated. The Vanguard Press, New York. $2.50.

Mr. Held's humor in The Flesh Is Weak, has exaggeration to the point of riotous caricature, whether in drawing or stories. In the sharpness of his drawings and the edge which his stories carry there is reflected a pensive and hilarious spirit. He has been the merry social historian of several youthful generations that have bloomed since the war, with the ardent ambition to live their own lives in their own eccentric way. About this horde of youth Mr. Held has written with understanding of their nature.

Like many funny fellows, Mr. Held is really serious about the reckless adventure of youth. But it is the tradition to be humorous when writing of youth. Yet beneath the surface humor of his farcical tales, there are satiric undertones. His perception has produced the language, gesture and mood of youth; the point of view behind the stories, while sympathetic, does not agree with that of the boisterous generation. Few, indeed, for all the number who have deplored the jazz age, have penetratingly ridiculed folly and emptiness with the incisive satire of Mr. Held.

The jesting element of his stories has obscured a purpose as serious as that of Stephen Crane when he wrote of Maggie. This new book is a collection of stories—a dozen in all—which previously have appeared in magazines that have the patronage of flappers, now in long skirts, but still flappers. Several of the stories might well interest a sociologist concerned with the peculiar mores of this restless age. "Penitentiary Bait" is such a story. It depicts an adolescent character with grim, sardonic humor. The slum background is quickly and briefly contrived and the character revealed against it. The treatment of the serious theme is masterly. It is a serious effort in realism of the street, which startles and stuns the reader as an explosion.

In "The Rainbow's End" the galaxy of artistic circle sin New York is revealed as not so brilliant when viewed from afar. Several of the stories are fantastic. A birds eye view of the things going on in New York is provided by "The Pigeon of St. Patrick."

A brief skit called "Dumb Bunny," gives a shocking, mocking, sly dialogue between a shy, elfin girl and a hard-boiled office acquaintance. It contrasts the gentle life with the present hard age. A different manner marks the affairs of "The Holy Bonds." This is a capital, realistic story; one of the many examples of Mr. Held's command of dialogue, which enables him to reproduce familiar speech with exactness and literary acumen.

Beulah, a product of the era, escapes from a familiar predicament by successfully practicing the wiles of her sex on a man sure of his own cleverness. With "The Holy Bonds" and "Penitentiary Bait," this group of tales, so authentic in their characterization, has two stories that would be outstanding in any collection. A combination of realism and humor in "The Holy Bonds" suggests that Held may go far in reporting the everyday American scene.

6 o'clock means nothing to telephone service!

Bell System service must go on all the time. Day and night, Sundays and holidays, it must handle with speed and accuracy not only the usual traffic but also the unexpected rush of calls.

To meet this obligation, Bell System men tackle problems of many kinds. At Bell Telephone Laboratories, scientists develop new kinds of apparatus. At Western Electric, engineers find ways to make telephones, switchboards and cable more and more reliable. In the telephone companies, traffic engineers devise improved operating methods that make service faster, more accurate, more dependable.

Result: at noon or in the dead of night, the public reaches confidently for the telephone, knowing that Bell System service never stops.

Herron Given 'Slap On Wrist' by Council

order and did not have to be answered.

Both Herron and Kingsbury were dismissed from the meeting after the council had completed its questioning.

In calling for action on the examining of the Editor of The Kernel, Lynch, in the president's chair said: "Mr. Herron admitted the Council was injured by his article. Mr. Herron admitted that his article was untrue. Mr. Herron admitted The Kernel representative who sought admittance to the Council meeting was unauthorized." During the examining trial, Herron had been emphatic in his denial of the latter two statements. Then Lynch called for a discussion.

During the heated exchange of opinions in the following minutes, many arguments were advanced with reference to the unconstitutionality of the constitution under which the present Council is working, because it has never been ratified by the student body. This viewpoint was presented by Russell Gray, president of the senior class. However, the Chair saw fit to overlook the arguments advanced by Gray and continued the discussion of Herron's "guilt" or "innocence."

Council Fears "Black Eye"

Some of the members of the Council brought forth the idea that if they did not take some action against Herron criticism would be heaped upon them, and if they did, the same effect would be the result. It seemed that the idea of getting a "black eye" for inertia agitated the passage of a motion to find Herron guilty of contempt of the Council by a vote of 5 to 4.

Russell Gray, supported in his arguments by Ralph Edwards and James Boddie, said that the Council and The Kernel should get together on a constructive program. The idea of drawing up an official constitution also was advanced.

However, Harry Lair, senior member of the Council, expressed, "I doubt whether the Council and The Kernel will ever get together this year."

Continuing the ever mounting discourses about Herron's "contempt" members of the Council became heated in their remarks and many times during the session the Chair called for order. Some members wished to drop the matter all together, and Gray said, "We are working under an illegal constitution. How can we base charges against Mr. Herron on such a constitution?"

"Guilty" Voted 5 to 4
But, despite the argument of Gray, O. B. Coffman, senior in the College of Education, made the motion that "Herron be found guilty of contempt of the Council." It was seconded by James Wylie-Curtis, sophomore in the Commerce college. The motion was carried by a vote of 5 to 4.

Lynch then called for method of punishment and what it should be. Curtis moved that Herron's social privileges be withdrawn for a period of six weeks. It was seconded by Coffman. However, the motion was lost, 7 to 2.

Ewing made a motion that Herron be "lightly" reprimanded and told that a second offence might be treated severely in the future. The motion was carried by 5 to 4. Ewing then appointed his committee to reprimand Herron.

Prior to this motion Ewing had stated, "I don't know what we could do with Herron. We could do better under a new constitution."

At this point Edwards took the floor and moved that the entire matter be dropped. The Chair would not allow any discussion, after it had been seconded by Gray on the grounds that the Chair thought it "out of order."

"Stuffing" Charge To Be Heard
Curtis moved that Herron be summoned before the Council at a later date on a charge that he (Herron) had made the statement that John Ewing had "stuffed" the ballot boxes during the last class election. Coffman seconded the motion. During the following discussion, Ewing said, "Herron did not catch me stuffing the ballot boxes." Laughter filled the Council room.

When a vote was taken on Curtis' motion, it proved successful by a vote of 5 to 4.

James R. Miner Represents Kernel

James R. Miner, senior in the College of Arts and Sciences, and member of the Athletic council, was elected yesterday to represent The Kernel on the Men's Student council. This action was taken in order to forestall any action on the part of the council to exclude the student press from attending the meetings and is in accordance with the constitutional guarantee of the governing body.

Heretofore members of the staff were elected temporarily to attend the meetings of the group whenever council executives decide that it was proper time to transact business.

TROY PERKINS NAMED

Troy L. Perkins, of Lexington, was assigned as vice consul at Medan, Sumatra, it was announced recently by the foreign service bureau of state department. Perkins has been at the foreign service officers training school of the department.

Mr. Perkins was graduated from the University of Kentucky in class '25, where he was a leader in campus activities. He was interested in the little theatre movement, wrote several plays and was a contributor to literary publications.

ILLUSION:

One of Houdini's most spectacular escape feats was performed with a huge milk can filled with water. He invited persons of the audience to bring padlocks and lock him into the can. He got into the can, the lid was put on and fastened with several padlocks. A screen was placed in front of the can. Assistants stood by with stop watches and fire axes to save him from drowning after a certain time. About a minute later, the screen was removed, Houdini was seen panting and dripping... the padlocks remaining intact!

EXPLANATION:

The usual method of escaping from a milk can is as follows: The lid of the can is apparently securely padlocked to the lower portion, but actually the metal band to which the staples are attached is the top of a short inner lining. The performer, after being locked into the can, pushes the lid upward with his head and the short inner lining is forced out of place, permitting his escape. The screen is then removed.

NO TRICKS
..JUST COSTLIER
TOBACCO
IN A MATCHLESS BLEND

It's FUN TO BE FOOLED
...IT'S MORE FUN TO KNOW

What exciting magic there is in cigarette advertising!
Let's look at one of its greatest illusions...that cigarettes can be mysteriously given superior "FLAVOR."

THE EXPLANATION: Just three factors control the flavor of a cigarette. The addition of artificial flavoring...the blending of various tobaccos...and the quality of the tobaccos themselves. Quality is the most important. Artificial flavoring can never wholly disguise the poor flavor of cheap tobaccos.

The blending of several cheap, raw tobaccos cannot improve the flavor of any of them. A fine cigarette is a cigarette blended from costly, ripe tobaccos.

It is a fact, well known by leaf tobacco experts, that Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand.

This is why the Camel flavor has never been rivaled... why Camels have given more pleasure to more people than any other cigarette ever made.

In more costly tobaccos lies the secret of Camels' delicate "bouquet"...of their rich, cool flavor...of their non-irritating mildness. It's the tobacco that counts.

All the natural goodness of Camel's tobacco is kept fresh and rich for you by the air-tight, welded Humidor Pack. Don't remove it. Its moisture-proof cellophane also protects your Camels from dust and germs. Put a pack in your pocket today.

KENT IS ELECTED AT 28TH MEETING OF EDUCATORS

H. E. Watters Chosen Vice-President; Dean Boyd, Secretary-Treasurer

SIX COLLEGES ADMITTED

Dr. R. A. Kent, president of the University of Louisville, was elected president of the Association of Kentucky Colleges and Universities at the twenty-eighth annual meeting of that organization conducted Saturday, January 14, in McVey hall.

Dr. H. E. Watters was elected vice-president, and Dr. P. P. Boyd, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences at the University, was re-elected to the office of secretary-treasurer. Dr. Watters is president of Georgetown college and is retiring president of the Association.

Six junior colleges were admitted to membership in the association at Saturday's meeting. They were Cumberland college, Nazareth college, Sacred Heart college, Campbellsville college, Pikeville college, and Mt. St. Joseph junior college.

The annual session of the Association of Colleges and Universities was opened at 10 a. m. Saturday with invocation, followed by an address by President H. E. Watters. Other speakers at the morning session included James Cammack, of Frankfort, representing the state department of education in the place of Superintendent of Public Instruction James J. Richmond, who was unable to attend, and Dean Paul H. Farrier of Kentucky Wesleyan college.

At a meeting of the Kentucky Association of Registrars, conducted during the noon recess of the association meeting, Mrs. Cleo Gillis Hester, registrar of Murray State Teachers' college and daughter of Prof. Ezra L. Gillis, registrar of the University, was elected president. Prof. H. M. Pyle, registrar of Kentucky Wesleyan college, was elected vice-president, and Mrs. Margaret Kilby, registrar of Asbury college, was re-elected secretary-treasurer. The principal speaker at the registrars' meeting was M. E. Mattox, registrar of Eastern State Teachers' college, who talked on "The Differentiation of Junior and Senior College Credit."

Dean of Engineers Established School

life's work the building of a notable College of Engineering at the University.

In 1893, under Dean Anderson's direction, there was prepared for the Columbian Exposition an exhibit of drawing and shop work from all the Land Grant College technical schools. This gave the American public an opportunity to see the concerted effort on the part of those state universities organized under the Morrill act of 1869 toward the training of men for the profession of engineering and mechanical arts.

In 1894 Dean Anderson served on the International Jury of Awards at the St. Louis Exposition with Dr. Steimmetz.

In 1896 Dean Anderson did the first X-ray work in America and in 1896 he developed a hauling chart for the loading of locomotives.

For 25 years Dean Anderson was Engineer of Tests for the Southern Railway company and during that time evolved many practices that proved to be valuable in the improvement of railroad practice. Among these was the stereopticon method for instructing trainmen; a logical method for loading long timber extending over two or three cars; evolving a method for the firing of locomotives with bituminous coal without making smoke; the preparation of a set of specifications defining the physical characteristics of all materials used by a railroad.

Dean Anderson made a study of the hydraulics of fire streams for the special purpose of preparing a fire protection clause for the city of Lexington.

In 1921 Dean Anderson was appointed Director of the Research

FROSH TO PLAY EASTERN HERE TONIGHT

Unbeaten in their three starts, the Kitten basketball squad will meet the Eastern State Teachers' College freshman outfit at 8 p. m. in the Alumni gym.

Eastern's frosh team is also undefeated and will come here resolved to preserve their spotless slate. According to all reports from the Richmond headquarters, the Maroon yearlings figure to have little difficulty with the local lads. Coaches Miller and Campbell would make no predictions concerning the probable outcome of the contest but intimated that their charges would provide the Easterners with plenty of opposition from start to finish.

Both teams have been mowing down their opponents by large scores and tonight's game should give the customers their money's worth if the boys put on the shooting exhibition they are capable of showing.

The lineup which has been starting the games, so far, will probably begin tonight's battle, with Jerome and Hershfield at the forward berths, Lewis at center, and Anderson and Edwards at the guard positions.

laboratory of the American society of Heating and Ventilating Engineers, located at the Bureau of Mines, Pittsburgh. This year he spent away from the University, returning to Lexington once a month to keep his contacts with the College of Engineering. During three years, from August 1, 1922 to August 1, 1925, Dean Anderson was director of this same laboratory, directing the work from his office at the University and making one trip each month to Pittsburgh.

During the four years he was Director of the Research laboratory of the American society of heating and ventilating engineers, 62 scientific papers were prepared under his direction. These papers pertained to the science of heating, ventilating and air conditioning. The most important work done at this time was the development of the comfort zone of atmosphere, which has been accepted as the standard for all problems pertaining to air conditioning.

Dean Anderson, for three years, was a member of the Engineering division of the National research council. In 1927, he was president of the American society of heating and ventilating engineers.

Dean Anderson, at the present time, is interested in the building and equipping of a laboratory for the study of the effect of sunlight on plants and animals in connection with the comfort zone of atmosphere. This laboratory has been made possible through the gifts of Mr. Percy H. Johnston, President

State Geologists Plan Field Trips

Dr. A. C. McFarland, and Dr. E. R. Cummings, head of the department of geology at the University of Indiana, who are members of the Committee on Ordovician Stratigraphy of North America, met January 11 in Bloomington, Indiana to plan a series of short field trips in southern Indiana, Ohio, and Kentucky. The work will be conducted during the spring and early summer of this year for the purpose of gathering information which is at present incomplete.

This committee is one of several dealing with different geological systems which were organized by the geological section of the National Research Council. Doctor McFarland and Doctor Cummings are taking care of the region in Ohio, Indiana, Tennessee, and Kentucky. Meeting with the rest of the committee next winter, their observations and conclusions will be incorporated in a chapter in the larger report dealing with all systems.

VESPER PROGRAM TONIGHT IS CONCLUSION OF SERIES

The Freshman Cabinet Vesper program, tonight will conclude a series of two meetings, which have been given under the general heading of "Living Creatively."

The theme for the outline followed, was suggested by Kirby Page, in the Intercollegian, a student magazine, in an article entitled "Ten Steps Toward Living Creatively."

Those who will take part in the program include Audrey DeWilde, Harriet Lancaster, Frances Kerr, Anna Gibson Hornsby. The first of the series was led by Cogle Elliott, parts of the program were taken by Carolyn Quiggley, Mary King Koger, Lillian Holmes, Bertha Grimes.

PHI BETA PLANS VESPER

The members of Phi Beta, national honorary music and dramatic fraternity are making interesting plans for the coming semester. Among them is the formal tea to be given the latter part of this month for the alumni and patrons of the fraternity. They are also planning a program for the regular Sunday afternoon Vesper services, February 12. There will be no meeting next week because of examinations.

culture, will be the chief speaker at the general session, while Dean Thomas P. Cooper, College of Agriculture; Catherine Eloise Cleveland, New York; and Judge King Swope, Lexington, will top the list of speakers at the homemakers session. Reports from many of the homemakers' clubs of the country, a concert by the Christian County homemakers' chorus, and an opera by the Hopkins county homemakers' chorus will complete the program for the day.

Pres. Frank L. McVey will speak at the general session Thursday, L. J. Taber, Columbus, Ohio, being the other principal speaker. Fannie Brooks, University of Illinois, will address the session of the homemakers held the same day.

The program for Friday, the last day of the convention, also includes a general and a homemakers' session, with Eugene Flowers, commissioner of Agriculture, outstanding speaker for the day. The homemakers' session will include a program of music, also talks by Miss Brooks, and Sarah B. Holmes of the University.

Of the sessions to be held Tuesday, all but the homemakers will hear at 11 o'clock an address by A. J. Glover, Fort Atkinson, Wisconsin, on the subject, "The Penalties of Progress."

of the Chemical Bank and Trust company, New York. Dean Anderson believes firmly that sun energy is the most important element in all nature's forces for the full development of all living things. He believes that it can be definitely proven that sun energy in combination with the comfort zone of atmosphere will produce ideal living environments.

Dean Anderson has a very definite philosophy in reference to the training of men. He believes that men should be taught to work as the means of producing the greatest effectiveness and happiness. He believes that all subjects in an engineering course should be taught from the standpoint of engineering fundamentals, leaving the specialized training to the industries. He believes that the engineer should be broad in his tastes and sympathies. He believes this can be done by surrounding the student, during his college days, with examples of beauty expressed by rare plants, animals, and minerals.

One of the Dean's hobbies is the cultivation of the friendship of leaders of the engineering spirit in America. First, as the means of stimulating his own processes for training men, and second, for the purpose of giving him many fields of industrial activity in which to place the graduates of the College of Engineering.

Every effort is made by Dean Anderson to give to the engineering student an appreciation of his mother tongue so that he may not only derive pleasure from reading, but will also acquire a facility of expression in writing and speaking.

To the weekly assemblies of the students of the College of Engineering Dean Anderson brings each year, many notable scholars and engineers. The students in engineering become acquainted with the types and philosophies of men who are outstanding figures in the engineering world. This year the weekly assemblies will be held at 10 a. m. every Wednesday in Memorial hall.

FROSH WIN OVER LEE'S COLLEGE 63-16

By JOE QUINN

Flashing a brilliant passing attack and displaying some accurate shooting, the Frosh basketball team swamped the Lees College varsity 63-16, in Jackson, Friday night.

The Breathitt county boys proved no match for the local outfit and trailed their opponents throughout the game. The entire squad of ten men who made the journey saw action and all but one of the men scored two or more points.

"Slip" Jerome, the Oklahoma flash who has been a consistent point-getter for the Kittens, again led the scorers for the night with eighteen markers. Lewis, of Jeffersonville, Indiana, and Hershfield of Springfield, Illinois were the other high point getters for the locals with 15 and 12 points, respectively.

Although the boys have been hitting on high lately, their first real test will come tonight when they meet the Eastern Frosh, here.

The summary of Friday's game: Freshmen 63 Pos. Lees College 16 Jerome (18) ... F (7) W. Eversole Hershfield (12) ... F ... (4) Rose Lewis (15) ... C ... (3) Stacey Anderson (4) ... G (2) H. Eversole Edwards (3) ... G ... Baker Substitutes: Frosh — Arnall (4); Esch (3); Henry (2); Taylor (2); L. Potter, Lees — Alfred, Oney. Referee—Hampton (Quicksand).

Athletic Council Holds Meeting

no division of A and B classes. No girls' games are held in the state tournament, due to a ruling passed some time ago by the schools of the state. The days set aside for this contest are March 17 and 18.

The next meeting of the council will be at the Lafayette hotel, at 6:30 p. m., January 27, at which time other matters which have been tabled for discussion, since the ultimate meeting preceeding the Christmas holidays, will be discussed.

SUKY TO CHECK CLOAKS

Following the recent meeting of the athletic council of the University, a statement was issued regarding the checking concession at dances given in the Alumni gymnasium. Heretofore the handling of the check room was in doubt and several groups were under the impression that any organization could control the checking privileges. The result of such condition was that competing groups attempted to gain control of the cloak room.

In order to put a stop to such practices the athletic council issued a statement notifying the student body that SuKy circle had complete charge of all arrangements.

The statement follows: To the Students of the University:

For the benefit of the students of the University we wish to convey the following bit of information resulting from the meeting of the Athletic council last Friday. Because of the many complaints registered as the result of inadequate handling of the checking concession at dances held in the Alumni gymnasium, the Council voted it to SuKy.

As a result of this, the same group of checkers will work every dance, thus assuring the students of an organized and responsible system of cloak checking. Those who will work the dances are to be either members of SuKy or to any individual or group to whom it is leased. The SuKy privilege is to last until the termination of the current school year in June.

The student representatives on the Athletic council advanced this motion after a careful investigation and believe it to be in the best interest of all concerned.

RUSSELL GRAY, JAMES R. MINER, Student Representatives of the Athletic Council.

Sigma Delta Chi Elects President

At a special meeting of Sigma Delta Chi, honorary journalism fraternity, last night, in Room 53, McVey hall, Marvin Wachs, managing editor of The Kernel was chosen president of the group.

Wachs succeeds Gilbert Kingsbury, who graduates this semester. Wachs is a senior in the College of Arts and Sciences, member of Omicron Delta Kappa, Kentuckian staff, editor of the Kampus Kat, and a member of Phi Kappa Tau social fraternity.

WOMEN'S BUILDING TO OPEN MARCH 25

According to Dean Sarah Blanding, the new womens' building will be opened sometime next semester or in the near future. This building, which is the old home of President Patterson, has recently been remodeled and repaired and will be turned over to the women students of the University as soon as it is ready for occupation. Its purpose will be to have a place where the women of the University may meet and enjoy themselves without having to go to a public hall or assembly room. The tentative date for its opening is set for March 25.
